

Rachel Lindsay & Bryan Abasolo's Relationship Timeline Couldn't Be Cuter

BY REBECCA STRONG | JUNE 15, 2020 | f

There are several reasons why Rachel Lindsay's season of The Bachelorette will go down in history. Not only was she the first Black star on the reality show, but hers was the first interracial relationship to come from it as well. And in case you haven't been following their post-Bachelorette romance, Rachel Lindsay and Bryan Abasolo's relationship timeline proves that love conquers all — even discrimination and disapproval from fans.

When Lindsay chose Abasolo over fan fave Peter Krause, viewers had mixed feelings, and she's admitted to Entertainment Tonight that the lack of receptiveness forced them to develop a "thick skin." What ultimately matters, of course, is that Lindsay felt confident in her decision — and seemingly still does, given that their relationship is going strong till this day. Let's be real — despite producing some super shippable duos, this franchise doesn't have the best success rate in terms of long-term love. In fact, between 24 seasons of The Bachelor, 15 seasons of The Bachelorette, and 6 seasons of Bachelor in Paradise, 18 Bachelor Nation couples have survived after the cameras stop rolling. But those rare success stories — like Lindsay and Abasolo's — are magical AF.

Since Lindsay and Abasolo got engaged on The Bachelorette's 13th season finale, the couple has been happily settling into their new life in Miami — and from their Instagram love letters to their candid interviews about married life, it's hard not to swoon over these two (even if you were #TeamPeter). Take a walk down memory lane via their full relationship history and you're bound to understand why #RnB has withstood the test of time.

August – September 2019: They Have A Honeymoon To Remember.

Shortly after officially becoming husband and wife, Lindsay and Abasolo celebrated their nuptials on an epic Mediterranean adventure, with stops in both Santorini and Mykonos. They reportedly stayed at the Andronis Arcadia, a luxe five-star retreat that offers sweeping views of the Aegean Sea, and based on their IG posts, their activities including sightseeing, smooching in the water and sunbathing on a boat like total bosses.