Andronis Arcadia

2. Andronis Arcadia, Oia

The vibe at Andronis Arcadia is a cream-and-wicker beach club, with a sprinkle of the all-week party scene in neighbouring Mykonos. Rooms are spacious, with private plunge pools; potent cocktails are served from a swim-up bar; and a filling, brunchy breakfast is served until 11am. This hotel is in tourist-magnet Oia (loved for its sunsets) but on the flatter, quieter side of town, rather than Santorini's iconic caldera (a vertiginous volcano rim). The pool and room terraces all face the sunset and the guests taking in these breathtaking views are young, tanned, and not shy about downing a Santorini Spritz before midday. Its Pacman Sunset Restaurant has a sushi menu which is a novelty in this island's largely Greek dining scene, while Opson's Ancient Greek feast is a classics lesson in banquet form.
